

Back to school

Many of us drop education as soon as we can, needing or preferring to get a job rather than staying on in sixth form or university. We don't put much effort into our studies and dream instead of leaving it all behind for a steady income. But that doesn't have to be the end of the story. Later in life it's easy to begin learning afresh – and to find a learning style perfectly suited to you and your life

Words: Catherine Jones
Photography: Annie Collinge

